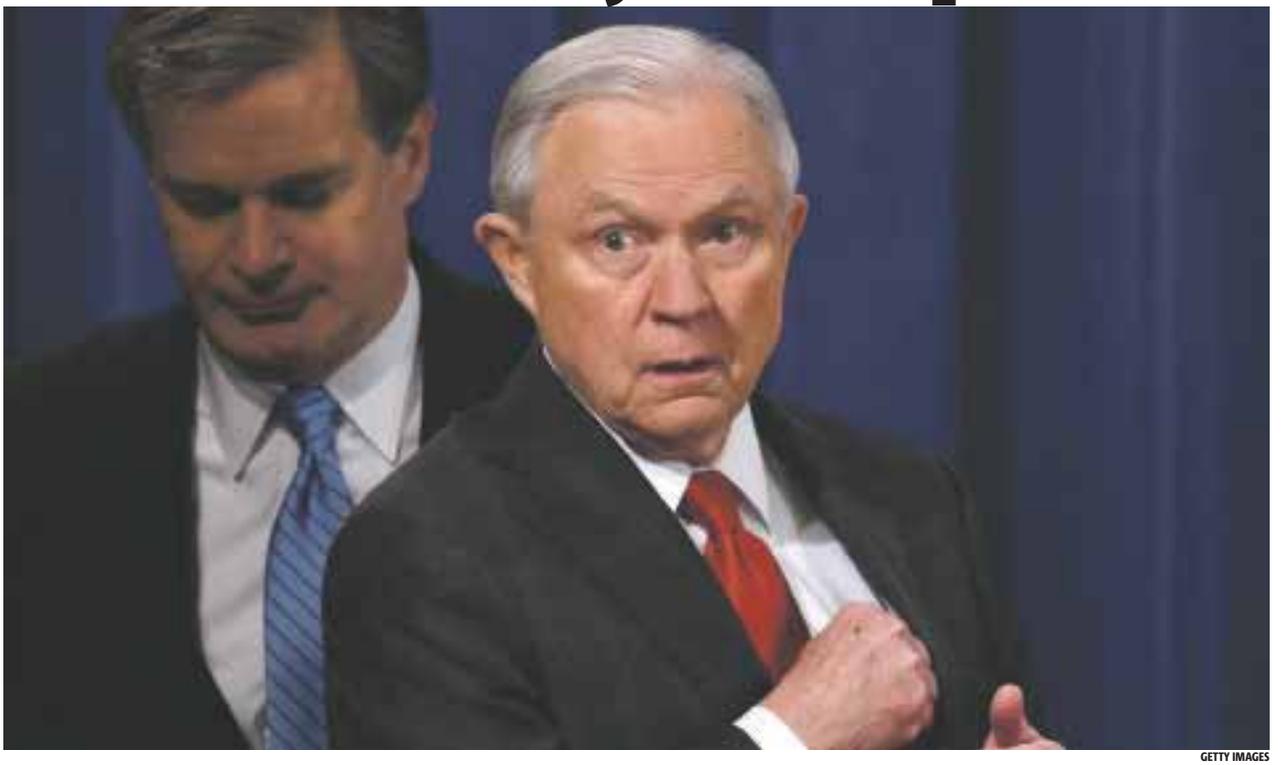
Trump fires Sessions, vows to fight Democrats if they launch probes

Sessions' chief of staff Matthew Whitaker was named acting AG.



GETTY IMAGES

President Donald Trump on Wednesday forced out Attorney General Jeff Sessions a day after congressional elections, and vowed to fight if the U.S. House of Representatives' new Democratic majority launches probes into his administration.

Sessions — an early Trump supporter who ran afoul of the president by recusing himself from an investigation into Russian meddling in the 2016 White House campaign — said in a letter to Trump that he had submitted his resignation "at your request."

The 71-year-old former U.S. senator was informed on Wednesday morning by White House Chief of Staff John Kelly in a phone call that it was time to go, said an aide who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Sessions' departure was the first in what could be a string of high-profile exits as Trump reshapes his team to gird for his own 2020 re-election effort. The Republican president named Sessions' chief of staff, Matthew Whitaker, as acting attorney general and said he would nominate someone for the job soon.

Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein was visiting the White House on Wednesday afternoon for what was described by an administration official as a regularly scheduled meeting.

"I could fire everybody right now, but I don't want to stop it, because politically I don't like stopping it."
President Donald Trump

Nancy Pelosi, the House Democratic leader who could be the next speaker, called Sessions' ouster a "blatant attempt" to undermine the Russia probe and urged Whitaker to recuse himself from any involvement in a statement posted to Twitter.

During a combative news conference in which he tangled with reporters, Trump trumpeted his role in Republican gains in Tuesday's midterm congressional elections, and warned of a "warlike posture" in D.C. if Democrats investigated him.

Democrats will now head House committees that can probe the president's tax returns, which he has refused to turn over since he was a candidate, as well as possible business conflicts of interest and any links between his 2016 campaign and Russia, a matter being investigated by U.S. Special Counsel Robert Mueller.

Trump said he could fire Mueller if he wanted but was hesitant to take that step. "I could fire everybody right now, but I don't want to stop it, because politically I don't like stopping it," he said.

Moscow denies meddling. Trump, calling the Mueller probe a witch hunt, has repeatedly said there was no collusion.

Trump was buoyed Wednesday by victories that added to the Republican majority in the Senate, telling reporters at the White House that the gains outweighed the Democrats' House takeover. He added that he was willing to work with Democrats on key priorities but felt any House investigations of his administration would hurt prospects for bipartisanship.

"They can play that game, but we can play it better," Trump said of the possibility of Democratic investigations. REUTERS

2 TRUMP BLAMES MEDIA, REPUBLICANS FOR LOSSES

The day after his party lost its lock on the U.S. Congress, President Donald Trump walked into a White House press conference ready for political combat, name-checking Republicans whom he blamed for losing their seats and lashing out at reporters who challenged his assertions. His news conference, which stretched close to 90 minutes, quickly turned raucous when some reporters pushed him on whether his campaign rhetoric on migrants from central America was divisive — and on developments in a federal investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election and any coordination between Moscow and the Trump campaign. Trump aggressively pushed back. "CNN should be ashamed of itself, having you working for them," Trump told CNN correspondent Jim Acosta, who wrestled with a White House staffer who forcibly pulled the microphone from his hands. "You are a rude, terrible person," Trump told Acosta. To PBS NewsHour's Yamiche Alcindor, who asked him about white nationalists emboldened by Trump labeling himself a "nationalist," Trump said he was insulted.

3 DEAD BROTHEL OWNER WINS ELECTION IN NEVADA

A brothel-owning, evangelical Christian-backed Republican candidate who died last month won his race for the Nevada state legislature late on Tuesday, according to state election officials. Dennis Hof, 72, defeated Democratic candidate and educator Lesia Romanov in the race for Nevada's 36th Assembly District, earning about 68 percent of the vote. County officials said they would appoint a replacement candidate from the same party for his seat. A representative for Romanov did not immediately respond to a request for comment. Hof, who presented himself as an American pimp, was a strip-club owner who ran multiple brothels. He had nicknamed himself the "Trump from Pahrump," after the town where he lived in Nevada. In a June interview with Reuters at Moonlite BunnyRanch, his brothel near his home in Pahrump, Nevada, Hof said his political fortunes had parallels with those of President Donald Trump. "This really is the Trump movement," Hof said. "People will set aside for a moment their moral beliefs, their religious beliefs, to get somebody that is honest in office."

The 2018 midterm election changed things for New York, flipping the state Senate and turning New York City completely blue in Congress. GETTY IMAGES

What does a Democratic win in 2018 midterms mean for NYC?

NYU professor Patrick Egan weighs in on Tuesday's win.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

New York City politics have long clashed with Albany, but the 2018 midterm election results may change that as Democrats have won control of the state senate for the first time in a decade.

The city spends more in resources to Albany than it gets back, said Patrick Egan, a politics professor at New York University who focuses on public opinions, campaigns and elections.

That's in part because urban centers have been driving the state's economic growth, he noted, and also because one legislative chamber has been consistently controlled by Republicans, whose base of power are the rural parts of New York.

In the wake of the 2018 midterm election, which is sending six new state Senators representing parts of the five boroughs to Albany, this could change.

"This shift could, in theory, lead to a shift in resources for the city," Egan said. "Think in particular about things like schools, think about the MTA and other transportation resources — those are two big ones that a newly empowered New York City delegation in Albany might be advocating with more force."

Having so many newcomers could be concerning to some — lack of experience is often criticized in political campaigns. But in terms of the State Senate, Egan isn't worried.

"If I look at New York state politics, it's so rife with corruption, indictments and other scandals, it's hard to say that new faces are anything but good," he said. "That might be true in a place only like New York state, but politics in Albany are so disappointing to anyone — Democrats, Republicans, liberals, conservatives — that anyone should welcome new faces arriving at the state level."

Outside of winning Democratic control in the state legislature, New York played a role in the "blue wave" that crashed over the country in the wake of the midterm election.

New York voters flipped three U.S. House seats in the midterms, helping Democrats take control: District 22, in which Anthony Brindisi beat incumbent Claudia Tenney; District 19, in which Antonio Delgado beat incumbent John Faso; and District 11, in which Max Rose beat incumbent Dan Donovan, which Egan called one of the biggest surprises of the night.

> "This shift could, in theory, lead to a shift in resources for the city."
> Patrick Egan, politics professor at NYU

District 11, which covers Staten Island and part of Brooklyn, has long been a Republican bastion.

With that win, "every square mile of New York City is now represented by Democrats in Congress, and that's really important," said Egan — an example of a national trend in which big cities become more and more Democratic.

It could end up hurting New York City a bit, though, since there's less competition for votes here, and thus less incentive for officials to send federal resources toward the city.

THE CHARGE OF THE DEMOCRATS

TOM FOREMAN

As I predicted, the mid-term election did not produce the "blue wave" Democrats hoped for. While they took control of the U.S. House of Representatives and scored some important wins in state governments, the Republicans also strengthened their hold on the Senate and racked up their own victories back home. Neither party came out with a clear nationwide mandate, and the war of political polarity rages on.

But Democrats decidedly have something to celebrate, because they gained two critical powers in the House — the power to stop, and the power to start. Their newfound majority can stop President Donald Trump's entire legislative agenda. All that Republican chatter about a GOP version of immigration reform, new tax cuts, trade deals, and infrastructure investments could come to a screeching halt if it does not reasonably satisfy Democratic demands.

And what might the Dems start? Investigations. Lots of them. With majority control, they can launch probes into spending, travel, secret meetings and more by member of the Trump administration. They can dig into those conflict-of-interest questions swirling around Trump's political influence and his family's business empire. They can even give political cover to the Russia investigation, knowing if Trump tries to shut it down, they now have the strength to legitimately push for impeachment.

Trump, as you might expect, has already met this political threat with one of his own, tweeting: "If the Democrats think they are going to waste Taxpayer Money investigating us at the House level, then we will likewise be forced to consider investigating them for all of the leaks of Classified Information, and much else, at the Senate level. Two can play that game!"

But that's the point, isn't it? Last week, for practical purposes only one party was on the playing field. Now there truly are two. And while the Democrats are still the underdogs, their old guard has been here before and knows how to make a lot out of even a little political power. That's a game changer, even if it's not the "blue wave" they wanted.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Local pols concerned as Amazon HQ2 eyes Queens' Waterfront Plaxall

State Sen. Mike Gianaris believes Long Island City is already stretched to its limits.

Amazon HQ2 could be setting up shop on the Anabel Basin waterfront in Long Island City, according to several sources who spoke to Politico.

The e-commerce company is said to be looking to establish two East Coast headquarters, with one rumored in Crystal City, Virginia, and a second in New York. Both locations would see the creation of 25,000 new jobs each.

Last year, Amazon announced its plans to split its second headquarters, looking at locations with the most attractive tax breaks.

In recent weeks, Amazon heads have met with Mayor Bill de Blasio and Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who have offered millions of dollars in subsidies in the hope of attracting the e-commerce giant.

"I want to have New York dominate the tech space," Cuomo shared while speaking outside of the polling station in Mount Kisco on Tuesday. "I think they would be foolish to go anywhere else. But I think it will be transformative for the entire state."

Although Amazon has yet to make an official announcement when it comes to building in

"I've got a real problem with what I'm hearing. Long Island City is already stretched to the limits. ... I'm not a huge fan of corporate welfare. ... I've got real doubts about it."

Queens, local politicians are already growing concerned.

Queens State Sen. Mike Gianaris isn't keen about Amazon's move.

"I've got a real problem with what I'm hearing. Long Island City is already stretched to the limits. … I'm not a huge fan of corporate welfare … I've got real doubts about it."

Long Island City residents have also voiced their concerns when it comes to having enough space for more people who would be relocating to the area were Amazon to set up its second headquarters. Schools, transportation, sewer systems, and more are also a concern.

Amazon HQ2 is currently said to be eyeing the area known as the Waterfront Plaxall property that is currently under development and would have the much-needed space Amazon has been looking for.

At the start of their search, Amazon announced that the company would need 500,000 square feet of commercial space with an additional 8 million square feet by 2027.

Hate crimes are on the rise in NYC

Mayor Bill de Blasio and NYPD Commissioner James O'Neill share the latest stats and concerns about the increase.

ANNA HARSTEDT
letters@metro.us

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio and NYPD Commissioner James O'Neill held a press conference Wednesday to address recent hate crimes as well as the city's latest crime statistics.

"New York City saw fewer overall crimes in October, including a decrease in murders and shootings, but police are concerned about the rise in hate crimes and rapes," NYPD Commissioner James O'Neill said at the news conference.

The recent stats show that hate crimes, particularly anti-Semitic, are up by 29 incidents. This year, there have been 159 incidents compared to 2017 with 130 incidents.

"Last month was a difficult time for our city as forces of hatred tried to divide and terrorize us," Mayor Bill de Blasio said. "We are the safest big city in the country because the NYPD is as diverse as all 8.5 million New Yorkers. I want to thank all our officers for working with every community to fight crime and protect us from terror."

Tensions are still high after the Pittsburgh Synagogue massacre, the deadliest attack on Jews in U.S. history.

Last week, several teens were caught throwing a metal pipe through a synagogue window, then hitting a Hasidic Jewish boy's religious garb and pushing a young girl in Brooklyn.

Last Thursday, anti-Semitic graffiti was found inside a Brooklyn synagogue during a scheduled political event with comedienne and actress Ilana Glazer, which was canceled. The following day, James Polite, 26, was charged with hate crimes after writing anti-Semitic messages. That same day, racist messages were found scrawled on the African Burial Ground National Monument in Lower Manhattan.

So far this year, crimes against the Jewish community have constituted half of all reported hate crimes in New York, up from 44 percent during the same time last year, according to data provided by the NYPD. Of the 290 reported hate crimes in New York in 2018 so far, 142 were deemed anti-Jewish.

> "New Yorkers should and will continue to be resilient and celebrate diversity."
> Mayor Bill de Blasio

According to the NYPD, anti-Semitic incidents represented the "vast majority" of hate crimes. By comparison, hate crimes based on sexual orientation, the second-most frequently targeted hate crime category, accounted for 40 reported attacks during the same time frame.

"New Yorkers should and will continue to be resilient and celebrate diversity," Mayor Bill de Blasio said.

So far in New York City, all anti-Semitic crime, including vandalism and assault, is up 13 percent, according to NYPD data.

"If you know anyone harboring similar thoughts or someone who talks about carrying out actions connected to violence against a specific group of people we want to know about it," O'Neill said.

The Medical Director of urology is David Shusterman, MD. Dr. Shusterman is a board certified urologist who specializes in state of the art compassionate kidney stone treatment.

Safe, effective ways to treat kidney stones

Anyone who has ever suffered from kidney stones knows just how painful it can be. It's little wonder that more than half a million people go to the emergency room for kidney stone problems every year, according to the National Kidney Foundation.

So what are kidney stones? They're essentially hard mineral deposits that form inside the kidneys. When the fluid in urine is unable to break them down, they'll pass through the ureter and bladder—which is generally a painful process. There's a wealth of anecdotal reports likening kidney stone pain to that of childbirth. The truth is that no two cases are alike, but early diagnosis is critical when it comes to getting ahead of it. Many times, this comes down to understanding the specific risk factors that might make you more likely to develop kidney stones. Family history, frequent dehydration, certain dietary issues, and obesity are all on the list. Board Certified Urologist Dr. David Shusterman of NY Urology takes a proactive approach. Thanks to a mix of preventative medicine and some simple lifestyle changes, you may be able to prevent kidney stones before they ever develop.

If a kidney stone is already in motion, Dr. Shusterman's expert team can quickly identify it using ultrasound imaging, then get things moving with innovative treatment options that have made NY Urology a nationally recognized leader in the field. He leads with holistic medicine with the goal being to break down kidney stones so that they can pass as naturally and easily as possible. NY Urology provides a cutting-edge, noninvasive treatment called extracorporeal shock wave lithotripsy (ESWL), which relies on sound waves to break apart the stones via focused vibrations. The in-office procedure is completely safe, and recovery is typically pretty swift.

Another option is placing something called a nephrostomy tube into the kidneys. This plastic catheter essentially lets urine drain directly from the kidneys during the treatment process. The result is near-immediate pain relief because you're eliminating backed-up urine and helping things flow more easily. A ureteral stent works in much the same way, bolstering the body's ability to drain urine and, in turn, safely encouraging the natural healing process. The soft plastic stent is temporarily placed directly into the ureter to help urine flow more freely. When ureters are blocked up by kidney stones, pain and discomfort are on the horizon. Stents open these passages.

When all else fails, NY Urology also specializes in minimally invasive surgery using a device called a ureteroscopy to eliminate painful, stubborn kidney stones. Making its way through the urethra and bladder, and into the ureter, the device zeros in on the kidney stone and swiftly removes it. The best part is that it's a fairly straightforward outpatient procedure that requires no incisions. In extreme situations where the stone is too large to remove with a ureteroscopy, Dr. Shusterman may call on a more in-depth procedure that involves a small incision in the back. The upside here is that the success rate is high, helping patients safely get rid of large kidney stones in one fell swoop.

Whether you're looking to prevent kidney stones or address one that's already wreaking havoc, NY Urology is your best resource. Book an appointment today with Dr. Shusterman, located at *800 Second Avenue on the corner of 42nd Street. I PAID FOR THIS SUBWAY RIDE, I'M GOING TO SIT DOWN!

Lisa C. started by asking a question; "Why do people try to fit into seats on the train that they clearly know they can't fit into?" Well, I'll tell you why, Lisa. We PAID for the seat, if the people on either side are man-spreading, leaving their packages on the seat or being plain inconsiderate, they'd better move a bit. We all live in NYC and understand a cramped subway car. Maybe the person has difficulty standing but doesn't have an obvious disability. Even without a disability, remember they paid for the seat. Too many people stand directly next to the door, blocking anyone that might attempt to stand in the area where a person is sitting on the edge of a seat. I've often sat down on an edge of a seat, and in two stops or less, have shaken, slid, nestled to the rear due to normal train jolts. No one has complained ... except you. People that don't remove their backpacks take up far more room than a seat-edge-sitter. If you are not comfortable, then stand, I'll gladly enjoy the room until someone else more understanding sits. :) We all need to get along.

The Powerful (and little known) Back Pain Treatment Used By Smart New Yorkers Who Don't Want Back Surgery or Opioid Drugs

NEW YORK CITY - A major back pain relief opportunity is at hand. But if you are interested, you must act quickly.

Here is why: Back pain ruins lives... and puzzles doctors.

You go through so many exams and tests... and treatments... and only end up suffering and frustrated.

And everyone is quick to say they have the "new breakthrough solution."

Am I right?

Well, the fact of the matter is... treating back pain is difficult. But advances in modern medical science and technology have created a treatment that has gotten great results with countless back pain sufferers who had tried everything else. Many had given up hope.

This treatment is called: "Radiofrequncy Neurotomy." RF for s short. And here's how is works...

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your back or neck and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

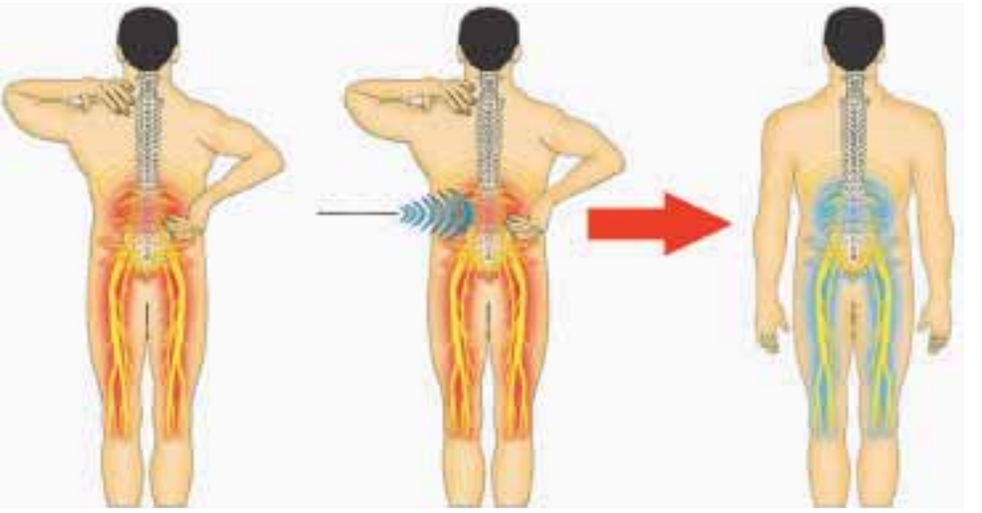
Radiofreqeuncy waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced precision medical imaging to target the damaged areas... done right in their own clinic without intimidating, expensive hospitals or surgical centers ... to "block" the painful nerve flow.

Two steps in the formula are performed. First, a test or diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function. If this first "test" procedure is successful, RF Neurotomy or "Radiofrequency" will be performed for longer term relief.

NOT just the Treatment alone that's the key ingredient.

You see, the real secret is the formula. And that again starts with a proper screening evaluation to determine if you are a good candidate and may achieve the results you are looking forward to. This is always Step number one.

And the best part about this screening is… It's FREE



FREE screening available for powerful back pain treatment

This screening will give you so much relief just knowing what is going on… and what your best options are.

That's right. NYC Pain MD offers this first step screening at no cost to patients The only problem is… they often get over 100 inquiries a day as they also treat almost every painful area and joint. Sometimes its hard to get through. If you don't get through to someone when you call… keep calling… or leave a message... it will be well worth it.

But that's just the first step

After your free screening, if you qualify, the doctors will discuss the best treatment plan for you in a way that you will understand completely. Not all complex "doctor talk"...

This may be one… or a combination of the advanced medical treatments offered at NYC Pain MD.

Everything will be explained and all your questions will be answered. And even better:

You will be given all this At NO COST. NYC Pain MD doc's are not like used car salesman. They will not be giving you a sales pitch. They are doctors and will give you the best possible options to help your pain and offer to help you the best way they can. In fact, with up to 100 inquiries a day from patient's looking for relief, it's often hard to even get a treatment spot.

You should also know this: While NYC Pain MD cannot help everyone… so many have gotten the pain relief they were looking for.

One of the reasons they offer those first step free screenings, is because it has opened the door to so many people to get help that they never would have otherwise.

At the very least, you will finally have some direction and a plan. And... whether you have the best, worst or no insurance at all, NYC Pain MD programs can be made affordable to everyone

They do not want insurance issues… or not being rich or famous… to keep you away if you are suffering in pain.

How To Schedule Your Risk-Free No-Obligation Screening Evaluation

There is a whole lot more I could say about their treatments etc… but this space is limited and that's best left for you and the doctors to discuss in person.

So… if you are even remotely interested … take the a first step and give them a call at 877-245-9252 and ask for your free screening.

One more thing... We often get over 100 calls in a single day. For that reason, if when you call you do not get a live scheduling coordinator, make sure to leave your name, number and time of your call on our voicemail. They will get back to you as soon as possible. Again, the number to call is 877-245-9252. More info at: painmdny.com/back-pain

‘Room 104’ finally gave Mark Duplass the chance to work with Mahershala Ali

The HBO anthology returns for a second season this week.

ANDREW HUSBAND

Technically, Mark Duplass of the Duplass Brothers and Oscar-winning actor Mahershala Ali have worked together. Both men provided their voice over talents to the 2017 Amazon Prime series “Comrade Detective,” which employed a large English-speaking cast to dub a purposefully shot (and fictional) ’80s Romanian TV show.

That’s obviously a technicality, of course, because Duplass and Ali weren’t even in the room together when they recorded their lines. And as the former explains it to Metro, the opportunity for them to finally work together, face to face, presented itself with the second season of he and his brother Jay’s HBO anthology series “Room 104,” which premieres Friday.

A quick recap: “Room 104” is about a single room in a nondescript hotel somewhere in America, and all the different people who stay in it. Sometimes the stories it tells are purely comedic or dramatic, sometimes it tells tales of surreal horror and science fiction-esque complexity. In either case, “Room 104” has afforded the Duplass Brothers the chance to work with some pretty amazing people, including Ali.

“I’ve had a longstanding mutual admiration and friendship with Mahershala, but I’m super busy and he is super, super busy, so we’ve never been able to find the time to make anything together,” says Duplass. “‘Room 104’ provided the perfect opportunity, so I told him, ‘Come up with a character you like and I’ll write you a story.’”

That’s exactly what happened. Ali came up with a idea for a character in a situation and gave it to Duplass, who in turn transformed it into a “Room 104” episode.

“I wrote him a script overnight and sent it to him. He loved it, so I said, ‘Give me two days when you’re free in this three-month window and we’ll shoot it together in two days.’ He did. It was the prefect way for us to collaborate creatively together in a short time frame. Otherwise, I don’t think there would have been any time for us to set aside 12 weeks to make a much longer show or movie together. It’s just not feasible right now.”

the hustling game while they're holed up in the hotel room. Needless to say, as the brief scene previewed in the season 2 trailer indicates, their familial conversation isn't going to be all that friendly.

But that's the nature of an anthology series like "Room 104," in which every single episode is different and, fan theories notwithstanding, no connections aside from the room itself exist between them.

"We were pleasantly surprised that people were taking delight in guessing what was going on," Duplass says of he and his brother's reaction to all the theories. "I've never considered myself a maker of grand mysteries. I'm more of a people, feelings and faces kind of filmmaker. But to have people theorizing about it like they were was really fun for us. We'd hoped that people would get into the mythology we were building, but we certainly didn't expect it."

"Room 104" season two premieres Friday at 11:30 p.m. on HBO.

THINGS TO DO

Christiani Pitts stars as Ann Darrow in "King Kong." JOAN MARCUS

All hail the King

Why the Broadway musical "King Kong" is nothing like you'd expect.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

One name you probably never expected to see on Broadway is King Kong, yet there it is, up in lights at the Broadway Theatre — and starring in a musical, no less.

It's been a journey of five years to bring him to New York after a brief run in Melbourne, Australia, a combination of logistics — very few Broadway theaters can house the massive Kong — and creative tweaks. Playwright Jack Thorne of "Harry Potter and the Cursed Child" acclaim was brought in for the script, with new songs by Eddie Perfect ("Beetlejuice") and Olivier Award-winning choreographer Drew McOnie, who also had the daunting task of directing all 20 feet of the silverback gorilla.

"People come to the show expecting the scale and the adventure," says McOnie, doing double duty as the $35 million production's director, "but the surprising thing about our story is the emotional arc."

Besides its outsize star, the entire production is something of an unusual beast. We talked to McOnie about why "King Kong" on Broadway is nothing like you'd expect.

While "King Kong" is a musical, it combines several different theater styles. MATTHEW MURPHY

Making King Kong the star of his own story

In all the previous versions of Merian C. Cooper's classic 1933 movie that introduced King Kong, the central character wasn't him. Instead, it was Carl Denham, the fame-hungry director who leads an expedition to capture Kong on Skull Island, where his aspiring lead actress, Ann Darrow, helps capture Kong to be taken to New York as the star of a new show.

"It was a story about his ambition," says McOnie. "Kong and indeed Ann played a part in telling the story of his ambition as two creatures that essentially got in the way of Carl's ambition, and the end of the story is always 'the beauty killed the beast' — it's Carl passing the blame and not taking any responsibility for his own ambition.

"With our production of 'King Kong,' the story's very much centered around the relationship between a beast and a woman. It's a story about shared ambition."

Unlike the huge, violent monster that Kong has become in the movies, "the surprising thing about our Kong is his emotional and heartful performance. It's much more about an empathy of the other and what the fear of the dark can do to us."

A show for our modern era

Though the story remains set in the 1930s, the team made "small but significant" changes, specifically giving more agency to Ann Darrow, played by Christiani Pitts, an actress of color. Darrow comes from a small town and finds herself compromising her values for fame in New York.

"It's a really complicated story in the way that it resonates with different cultures," says McOnie. "It's a story that for a long time has completely misrepresented women, people of color and people [from] other cultures.

"The surprising thing about our story is hopefully an element of representation. That no matter what your otherness is within you, it's a story about people who are considered other, other communities, other cultures. How simple acts of empathy and trust that are very much needed between those communities can lead to sense of wonder, serenity and equality."

It's not a traditional musical

"King Kong" certainly has some traditional musical elements, including choreographed dancing and ensemble and solo songs by Eddie Perfect, and the puppetry is itself a form of theater. But the show also has Hollywood-worthy action sequences, scenes more suited to a serious and somber play, a haunting score by Marius de Vries, and one very unforgettable moment created just for the audience. "It weaves together in a way that hasn't been set against traditional musical-theater format," says McOnie.

"King Kong" opens tonight at the Broadway Theatre, 1681 Broadway. Tickets are $69-$175 through telecharge.com or by phone at 212-239-6200; kingkongbroadway.com.

Meet Broadway's biggest star

It takes 14 performers to bring King Kong to life. JOAN MARCUS

When your name is the title of the show, you'd better live up to the hype. "King Kong" the musical won't have any trouble with that, boasting the biggest star on Broadway (or really anywhere else).

McOnie talks about flying to Melbourne to "meet him for the first time," as though a 20-foot-tall silverback gorilla were another of his actors. "I prepared myself to be underwhelmed, because everyone was going so crazy about him," he recalls. "And when I got into the hangar I went, 'Oh, he's actually really, really big,' but the thing that really hit me around the head was his eyes.

"I just wasn't prepared for the emotional intelligence that his face can create, and his eyes have a real kind of aura and magic around them."

Though he already had the gig, looking into Kong's eyes came as a "massive relief" for the task ahead of him. "As a director, I'm responsible for the emotional arc of the character, and we have this incredible central character that has to deliver all these emotional beats opposite our leading lady," he says. "Obviously, it was still mildly terrifying, but at the same time it was a big relief because it really felt like I was dealing with an actor and not just an inanimate object."

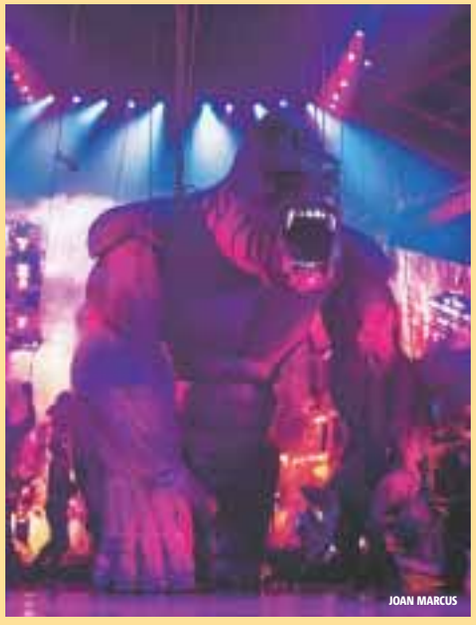
And oh, how King Kong can act. It takes 14 people to bring him to life, known as the King's Company. But there's nothing, not even the photos in these pages, that could prepare you for seeing him in real life. His entrance is a heart-pounding masterwork of suspense; several times during the show, spontaneous applause breaks out from sheer astonishment. Only the stoniest theatergoers won't be moved to tears at least once.

"It's both unique and oddly normal to me," McOnie says of directing and choreographing one character that's actually made up of 14 people.

"My origins are in dance, I have a dance company, and so when you're dealing with a body of dancers, you're very used to orchestrating an emotion through a group so you can be delivering it in a unison beat."

EVA KIS

"KING KONG" BY THE NUMBERS



JOAN MARCUS

$35 million

It cost $35 million to stage the show, and the Broadway Theatre was one of only a handful of Broadway stages that could accommodate him — one of the reasons it took five years from the show's 2013 premiere in Melbourne, Australia, to bring him to New York.

2K pounds

King Kong weighs 2,000 pounds, with a body made of steel, fiberglass, carbon fiber, air bags, motors, inflatable tubes and a lot of gray fabric.

20FT tall

The puppet — it feels inadequate to call him that, but essentially true — stands 20 feet tall but seems much taller because of his presence.

14 performers

It takes 14 performers, called the King's Company, to operate him: 10 onstage actors, three "voodoo operators" who control Kong's finer gestures and facial expressions with joysticks and pedals from a booth in the balcony, and one cable operator to raise and lower him.

Mickey at 90

After making his debut in New York in 1928, Mickey Mouse is back with an immersive gallery like you've never seen him before.

EVA KIS

There's no bigger brand in the world of entertainment than Disney, which now includes Marvel superheroes and "Star Wars," 12 theme parks, its own TV channel and a vast movie empire. But, as Walt Disney liked to remind people, it all started with a mouse. Mickey Mouse got his start 90 years ago right here in New York City, and he's back to celebrate his birthday.

Mickey Mouse's introduction to the world was in 1928's "Steamboat Willie," which screened at the Colony Theater, now known as the Broadway Theatre (where King Kong rules). His return to New York is no traditional celebration. Disney sought out contemporary artists who love Mickey in their own unique ways to fill its 16,000-square-foot interactive gallery show "Mickey: The True Original Exhibition." One of the first things you'll see, in fact, is a Mickey you've probably never known: an angry one, sculpted in neon from a 1930s character sheet by artist Jeff Shelly.

"He was very persnickety and feisty in the beginning," says Shelly, Disney's director of character art who's been an animator and designer with the company for 28 years. "Then he slowly became so popular that his personality became more of a role model, and Donald came along in 1934 and took over the angry role."

Cosmic Cavern

If you know that level of trivia, "Mickey: The True Original" is an exciting trove of treasures for you, with plenty of hidden Mickey Easter eggs like a "Steamboat"-era Mickey Mouse with gloves (which he didn't get until two cartoons later) and Annette Funicello's original "Mickey Mouse Club" outfit.

For the casual fans, there are plenty of photo ops like Daniel Arsham's Mickey emerging from a wall, Mickey's "Fantasia" magic recreated in yarn by Brooklyn fabric artist Shinique Smith, an ice cream stand by longtime Disney partner Ample Hills and a recreation of the original "Mickey Mouse Club" set.

One thing you don't need a ticket for is the gift shop; there's an online store with even more special 90th anniversary swag as well. The store also includes a free peek into the exhibit with a psychedelic black-light Cosmic Cavern stuffed with paraphernalia created by New York artist Kenny Scharf — in case you ever wondered what Mickey's house would look like if he were a teenage Led Zeppelin fan.

"Hopefully," says curator Darren Romanelli, "you're inspired and leave reconnecting with Mickey but also feeling a new sense of connection with Mickey."

"Mickey Mouse: The True Original" is open Nov. 8-Feb. 10, 2019 at 60 10th Ave. in Chelsea. Hours will be Tuesday-Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; tickets are $38, showclix.com

Experience the Everglades this winter in beautiful South Florida

From airboat tours through the swamp to high-end shopping, here are the best things to do in Fort Lauderdale.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

The Everglades is one of Florida's most prized and breathtaking treasures. Spanning over 734 miles through the southern coast, this lush swamp area is one of our country's largest wildlife preserves. Founded in 1971 as a fishing camp, Sawgrass Recreation Park in Fort Lauderdale aims to educate all of its guests on the beauty and history behind this remarkable habitat.

Airboat adventures and boat rentals at Sawgrass Recreational Park

After the devastating effects of Hurricane Wilma in 2005, the park's current owners Rick and Susan Soverns pledged to reopen as quickly as possible to those looking to explore the rich Everglades. It has been thriving and expanding ever since. With various different touring options including guided daytime and nighttime airboat rides through the area and wildlife exhibits, the Soverns have created the perfect Everglades experience at Sawgrass Recreation Park.

When imagining the Everglades, you probably picture water flying into the air as a fanboat splashes through the swampy terrain at high speed. Well, if that is the experience you are looking for, look no further than booking one of your very own airboat tours at Sawgrass Recreation Park! With each boat fitting up to 25 passengers and lasting around 30 minutes, you will zip through the 'Glades at speeds of up to 50 miles per hour, with gators on all sides. If that is not enough time for you, feel free to extend your trip and add on your very own private catering service with delicious food provided by the park's very own Gator Grill.

The Sky Deck at Conrad Fort Lauderdale Beach.

While guests will get the best tour of the Everglades via the park's guided airboat tours, they can also rent their own boats to venture off to fish and explore at their own pace. You can rent boats that hold up to four adults for either four hours at $59 or seven hours at a rate of $79. These rentals will require a $200 redeemable deposit as well, to maintain the condition of the boat. Camping on-site is also available to guests who wish to spend the night in the special region.

Book a room at Conrad Fort Lauderdale Beach

If you're looking for an elegant place to stay not too far from the Everglades, book a room at the brand-new, elegant Conrad Fort Lauderdale Beach located on North Fort Lauderdale Beach. You'll get to stay in style in one of the resort's 290 all-suite accommodations with access to their 4,000-square-foot Conrad Spa and Fitness Center.

Conrad Fort Lauderdale Beach also has four artisanal dining locales, including Cornucopia Gourmet Market. You can also enjoy some delicious signature cocktails from the inventive mixologists at Atlas Cocktail Lounge or simply enjoy a drink by the pool from Spinnaker Pool Grill on the sixth floor elevated Sky Deck.

Spend a day shopping at the Sawgrass Mills Mall

If you need a break from all of the sun and relaxation, a day of proper retail therapy at the Sawgrass Mills Mall might be exactly what the doctor ordered. Located 15 minutes from the Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport, this gorgeous shopping center located on 734 square miles of land on the busy and happening West Sunrise Boulevard is your one-stop for all of your souvenirs — or simply all of the window shopping your heart desires.

With more than 350 exceptional outlet stores and brands such as American Signature Home, Bed Bath & Beyond, Brandsmart USA, Burlington, Gameworks, Marshalls, Neiman Marcus Last Call, Nike Factory Store, Nordstrom Rack, Saks Fifth Avenue Off 5th, Ron Jon Surf Shop, Super Target, T.J. Maxx, Urban Planet, Off Broadway Shoes, Regal Sawgrass 23-theater cinema & IMAX, Bloomingdale's – The Outlet Store, Forever 21, Century 21 Department Store, H&M, and Dick's Sporting Goods — it is easy to get lost in all that the Sawgrass Mills Mall has to offer.

Sawgrass Mills is also home to 14 full-service restaurants and has recently expanded to The Colonnade Outlets with more than 70 luxury outlets — 60 exclusive to South Florida — including Burberry, Dolce & Gabbana, Diane von Furstenberg, Jimmy Choo, Ted Baker London, and Versace.

So, don't wait! Make your plans to experience the Everglades in Greater Fort Lauderdale, Florida today.

ISTOCK

The picturesque cobblestone streets of Nantucket are freshly painted with fall leaves.

Now is the time to plan your trip to the charming New England island. If you thought the whale-shaped isle was beautiful in the summer, you haven't seen it in autumn—there's plenty to do!

Fall on the waterfront

November marks the start of Nantucket Bay scallop season. These delicious scallops (and the dishes they inspire) are curated by the chilly waters of the Nantucket Sound and are collected from the island's native inshore eelgrass. Stop by two well-known island restaurants, Brant Point Grill or Topper's to give 'em a shuck and a taste.

Just because autumn has made its way back to the tiny island doesn't mean the lobsters have gone on a holiday. Guests who want to take their taste buds to the sea can board The Wauwinet Lady each Tuesday and Thursday with Captain Rob for a hands-on-lobstering experience. Fall on the island is truly an autumn shell-ebration.

Avid fishermen (and women) can try their hand at surfcasting, where lines are cast directly from the shores of Atlantic Hotel's private beach. Complimentary lessons are provided on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

ACK for the holidays

The White Elephant's Brandt Point Grill hosts its annual Thanksgiving Buffet on Nov. 22 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Here, foodies can fill their plates while enjoying the coastal views out onto the restaurant's lawn. All of the traditional fixings such as turkey, mashed potatoes and stuffing will be served. Coastal dishes such as clam chowder and a plentiful raw bar will be on the Thanksgiving menu too.

Menus are priced at $85 for adults and $35 for children 4-12; children under 4 dine for free.

The highly awaited Nantucket Christmas Stroll will commence from Nov. 30 to Dec. 2. This year will mark the 45th anniversary of the Christmas Stoll where downtown Nantucket is transformed into a winter-holiday utopia. Shoppers (and photographers) will see hundreds of 7-foot Christmas trees lining the cobblestone streets as well as costumed carolers, live performances on Maine Street, treats at the local shops and also Santa Claus at the historic Jared Coffin house. Now, doesn't that all sound all so very merry?

Book your stay

OK, you're ready to book your ticket to ACK this new season … where to stay? The cool thing about the cooler island temperature is that rates and room prices drop too at the Nantucket Island Resorts. Look at additional incentives via the Hot Dates, Cool Rates promotion, which falls an additional 20 percent for stays on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights.

Will Kanter want out of New York?

The center has been relegated to the bench on a non-competitor.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Knicks center Enes Kanter has been sent to the bench early on this season. Will that damage his relationship with the team? GETTY IMAGES

New York Knicks center Enes Kanter is one of the most recognizable, established and talented players on a young roster that isn't expected to go anywhere during the 2018-19 season. Yet he has not been getting starts under new head coach David Fizdale.

The 26-year-old, who is fresh off a massive 23-point, 24-rebound performance on Monday night against the Chicago Bulls, has come off the bench in each of the Knicks' last six games as Fizdale has a new plan for the big man.

Fizdale is eyeing a Sixth Man of the Year award for Kanter rather than giving him regular starts. He started 71 games during his first season with the Knicks last year and 154 over the prior two seasons with the Oklahoma City Thunder.

The move obviously has not been favorably viewed by Kanter, who was benched in favor of the 20-year-old and obviously inexperienced Mitchell Robinson.

"I don't worry about [individual] trophies," Kanter said, per the New York Daily News. "My thing is we promised this city the playoffs."

In all fairness, that promise most likely is not going to be met this season as the Knicks are poised for yet another season of mediocrity in a weak Eastern Conference whether he was starting or not.

Coming off the bench hasn't necessarily hurt Kanter's numbers: he is averaging 27 minutes per game (up from 25.8 last year) and posting 15.3 points and 11.7 rebounds through 11 tilts. Should he maintain those numbers throughout the year, it would be one of his finest seasons as a pro.

However, being considered a role player now on a non-contender would bruise the ego of any player that was once regularly a starter while entering the prime of his career. Not only that, but it will likely call into question Kanter's standing with the team after this season.

The Knicks are on the cusp of major changes, with two max-salary roster slots leaving the door open for big-time stars to take their talents to Madison Square Garden. As they will be added to a roster that is going to be built around Kristaps Porzingis and Kevin Knox, it wouldn't be unfathomable if Kanter saw some kind of proverbial writing on the wall and asked for a way out.

In all likelihood, it would be far-fetched to assume that Kanter would want to push his way out of New York. He is often vocal of his love for the city and has made countless promises to Knicks fans that he will help turn things around.

So it boils down to whether the Knicks want to keep him in their future plans. His contract expires at the end of this season, and should the Knicks believe a prospective contract will throw a wrench in their plans of pursuing big stars, not only might they not retain him, but they could look to deal him.

Kanter's name surfaced in trade talks last year around the league's Feb. 8 trade deadline as there was some interest from teams around the league.

Todd Bowles' hot seat will only get warmer after Sam Darnold injury

The injury to the Jets rookie quarterback seemingly flew over the head of Bowles.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

New York Jets head coach Todd Bowles continues to make all the wrong moves after Sam Darnold's injury surprised everyone on Wednesday. GETTY IMAGES

If New York Jets head coach Todd Bowles' hot seat wasn't already warm enough, it might be scalding now.

On Wednesday, Manish Mehta of the New York Daily News reported that Jets rookie quarterback Sam Darnold has a "significant" foot sprain and will not play in Sunday's Week 10 matchup against the Buffalo Bills.

Veteran Josh McCown will start in Darnold's place.

It's the icing on the cake of what has been a horrendous three weeks for the organization. The Jets season is on the brink of imploding (if it's not already there) after three straight losses, including a miserable offensive outing in Week 9 against the Miami Dolphins in which New York could only muster a pair of field goals in a 13-6 decision.

Darnold had his worst game as a pro in Miami, throwing four interceptions to raise his dubious league-leading season total to 14 picks.

While it is unclear when he sustained the injury, Darnold suddenly appeared in street clothes during Wednesday's practice with a boot on his right foot. Usually, an injury like that is brought to the attention of the media and fanbase shortly after being suffered.

However, Bowles said on Monday that he did not know of any injury that occurred to the future of the Jets franchise.

This obviously puts Bowles in a bad position. Either he neglected to inform the media of an injury, which will only see him lose more friends in New York, or he was not alerted to it. The latter might be the worse scenario, seeing as it suggests that Bowles has no idea what is going on inside his team.

With 2018 looking like a third straight losing season, Bowles' current record of 22-34 was already set to land him in hot water with Jets management — especially after two straight 5-11 seasons.

While the Jets were not expected to make a serious run at the playoffs, it was not an improbable thought that they could at least flirt with the .500 line this year.

But conservative coaching, questionable play calling and now mysterious injury to the organization's future could mean it's curtains for Bowles at MetLife Stadium sooner rather than later.
